STATE FAIR VISITORS THROWN INTO PRISON

MARTIAL LAW SEEMS TO PREVAIL

(By United Press.)

Columbus, Aug. 31—Martial law, to all practical purposes, has been established by the Ohio National Guard at the state fair grounds, Guardsmen, who parade the grounds and exhibit halls, with rifles on their shoulders, are arresting fair visitors, who are charged with minor offenses, and making them do guard duty and perform various chores about the soldiers' camps, in pursuance of orders, they claim, from the state board of agriculture.

Nineteen persons, including Postmaster Harry Krumm, of Columbus, all accused of minor offenses, were arrested by guardsmen on the grounds today.

Postmaster Krumm, who was halted by a guard as he was entering the grounds in an auto containing U. S. mail, was released by the officer of the day after the soldier had physically mistreated him, in attempting to take him to the guard house by force.

The other 18 men arrested were made to serve out sentences that were passed without the formality of civil law proceedure.

Postmaster Krumm has made complaint to Adjutant General Weybrecht about the matter in which he was treated and Weybrecht has promised to make an investigation.

City Hires Woman Flirt

Los Angeles, Aug. 31—Miss Fay Evans, pretty of face and wearing attractive clothes, believes the tactics of the "masher" have been a menace to women from time immemorial. So she offered her services free to Chief of Police Sebastian a few days ago in an effort to stop "mashing" in Los Angeles. Her services were accepted and she walks the streets followed by two policemen in plain clothes.

If a man casts too many ogling eyes at Miss Evans or tries to speak to her, he is arrested. Five men were arrested last night, and today four were fined $30 each, with the option of thirty days in jail. The other man failed to appear for trial. Five men were arrested tonight and will be given a hearing tomorrow.

It is thought that the young woman went to the barn to hitch up the horses preparatory to driving to this place, when the animals became unmanageable and they kicked her to death.

Will Be No Cut In Teachers' Salaries

(By Associated Press.)

Columbus, Aug. 31—That there would be no cut in the salaries of school teachers and that an appeal would be made to the legislature for relief if school boards run short of funds, was announced at the office of the state school commissioner here today. In a letter to his office from Cincinnati, Commissioner Miller said that if a close watch was kept on every avenue of expense it was not probable that any additional demands would have to be made upon the state treasury.

Washington, Aug. 31. The advance guard of the army of hoboes straggled into the national capital today in preparation for the convention of the unemployed which is scheduled to begin tomorrow. The convention will urge upon congress the enactment of laws for the establishing of a government employment bureau.

Farmers Go To War Over Dinky River

(By Associated Press.)

Millersburg, O., Aug. 31— The farmers of Wayne and Holmes county are at war over a proposed change in the course of the Killbuck river. The farmers of Wayne have proposed that the river be straightened for a distance of ten miles, so that it would result in giving them a better irrigation system. The Holmes county farmers claim that this would lay waste a large part of their valuable farms. It is likely the case will reach the court of injunction.

President Spoke Against Recall

(By United Press.)

Boston, Aug. 31—Addressing the members of the American Bar Association, in session here, this afternoon, President Taft urged the lawyers to take up the work of reform in judicial proceedure. He denounced the Recall as applied to the judiciary, and urged the adoption of the arbitration treaties between the United States, France and England.

The president's remarks were greeted with enthusiasm by the 500 lawyers present. The greatest demonstration came when the president advocated the increase in the salaries of United States judges from $15,000 to $25,000 a year and when he referred to the Recall as a "wild theory."

The president said in part: "I am most anxious that the arbitration treaties be left unamended as I want them to mean something and to accomplish something. We will not go ahead with this arbitration business unless we are willing to assume obligations and to execute judgments that we may not like. If we say that we will wait until specific questions come up before agreeing to arbitrate and then conclude that we cannot win, and so declare the question not justifiable, then we will have written our promises in water. Such a course will ob struct international arbitration and will make it the laughing stock of nations."

RAILROADS PLEASED AT THEIR TAXES

(By United Press.)

Columbus, Aug. 31—Tax agents of some of the big railroads in Ohio are immensely pleased with the final values placed upon the railroads by the state tax commission, because they will actually pay less tax this year than last owing to the decreased tax rate. The total valuation placed on railroads for 1911 is $573,243,249, compared to $166,469,599 in 1910, an increase of 243.6 per cent but this year some of the big roads will pay less actual tax as they will pay at the rate of one per cent on the actual market value, while last year with a valuation much lower, they were forced to pay at the rate of three per cent.

The C. H. & D. railroad, of which Gov. Harmon was receiver, will pay less this year than last as the valuation is not three times higher.

GEIDEL'S FATE IS IN HANDS OF JURY

(By Associated Press.)

New York City, Aug. 31—The Paul Geidel case is now in the hands of the jury who it is thought will render a verdict before fifteen hours. Counsel for the state, in summing up the evidence, relied wholly upon the testimony given by the police officers who claim that Geidel made a complete confession to them, admitting that he had murdered the aged broker, William R. Jackson, for which crime he was placed on trial. The defense are relying upon the testimony of Geidel and medical experts to the effect that the broker's death was directly traceable to an attack of heart failure.

Beattie To Go On Stand Tomorrow

(By United Press.)

Chesterfield C. H., Aug. 31—The strangest card yet shown by the defense in the Henry Clay Beattie trial, was played by his lawyers today. A mysterious witness surprised the prosecution with the declaration that on the Sunday before the murder he had seen Paul Beattie at his post as a bridge watchman, carrying a single barrelled shot-gun. Paul Beattie had insisted that he gave the gun to his cousin, Henry, the accused man, on Saturday night. The witness who threw the bomb into the camp of the prosecution was Ernest Neblett, a paper mill superintendent. He declared that at 8 o'clock on Sunday evening he saw Paul Beattie standing in the little building at the end of the bridge. "When he saw me he put the gun inside the doorway," said the witness.

If this story is established, one of the principal features of Paul Beattie's testimony, upon which the prosecution has founded its whole case, will be controverted. In a brief cross examination of the witness the prosecution was unable to shake his testimony in the slightest degree.

After handing the state this surprise, the defense sat down to the examination of half a dozen character witnesses, thus paving the way for the introduction of the accused man on the stand.

After the convening of court following the noon recess Attorney Smith announced that Henry Clay Beattie would take the stand immediately upon the opening of court tomorrow morning.

(By Associated Press.)

Chesterfield C. H., Va., Aug. 31—Having resolved itself into a question of veracity between the two cousins, Paul Beattie and Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., the trial of the latter on the charge of having killed his beautiful young wife, was resumed today.

David Weinstein, son of the pawn broker from whom Paul Beattie said he had purchased the shot gun with which the crime was committed, was placed on the stand by the defense. He stated he had sold the gun to Paul, but denied having taken it apart and showed the young man the inner workings of the gun. The witness stated that Paul had told he wanted the gun for self protection as he was employed as a watchman and might need it some time. He also testified that Paul tried to purchase a revolver from him at an earlier date, but that he had refused to sell him one. He denied that he had ever loaned Paul a dollar, as Paul testified when on the stand.

E. H. Nevlitt, the next witness said he saw Paul Beattie carrying a shot gun the day after Paul claimed he had given the gun to his cousin, and declared he had not come forward before with his testimony because he did not consider it important.

The aged grandfather of Paul Beattie testified that the reputation of his grandson for truth and veracity was not good. He said, however, that he had not seen Paul much in the past two years and he might possibly have improved during that time.

He was followed to the stand by Henry Clay Beattie, Sr., father of the accused man.

Both Afraid Of Beulah

Chesterfield Court House, Va., Aug. 31—Locked in the bosom of a 17 year old girl today lies the story that would settle the fight for life of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., on trial for the murder of his wife, but neither the lawyers who are seeking to send Beattie to the electric chair nor those who would save him that fate, would admit today that they would place the girl on the stand. Both the prosecution and the defense are afraid of this girl, Beulah Vinford, as her real attitude cannot be learned.

INJUNCTION IS OUT AGAINST THE ONIONS

Des Moines, Aug. 31—Judge Lawrence DeGraff, who, by issuing a mandatory injunction a few weeks ago, effectively ended what threatened to become a serious street car strike, today issued an injunction intended to afford the tenants of an office building relief from the pungent fumes of cooking onions.

Lawyers who have offices in a down-town building off the court, they did not relish the odors which escaped from the chafing dish of a restaurant across the alley. Judge DeGraff ordered the restaurant company to raise its chimney high enough to carry the odors above the attorneys' offices. He gave the company three days in which to do this or else answer for contempt.

It looks as though Taft had committed a tactical blunder in assailing the Republican insurgents. He is a mild mannered man, unfitted for aggressive hostilities.

JOSEPH MURDER CASE TO BEGIN ON NEXT MONDAY

Deputy Sheriff Hendrickson, of Lewis county, Ky., was in Portsmouth Wednesday night on a still hunt for some men wanted at Vanceburg.

Mr. Hendrickson, who is one of the best and most fearless officers in the valley, appeared at police headquarters just in time to see his old friend, Col. Tom Dudley Wallingford rush in, bleeding from a half dozen wounds received in a mixup with Earl Sly.

Mr. Hendrickson said that William Hutcheson, a Portsmouth man arrested with others a few days ago for lumber stealing is facing some serious evidence. Detective Jack Rice unearthed more evidence against him Wednesday, when he found parties to whom Hutchesnu and his pals had sold two tubs of lard at one dollar apiece, and also some mops and other articles alleged to have been stolen from a C. & O. merchandise car.

Vanceburg is considerably excited over the two big first degree murder trials that are to begin there next week. One is the case of Perry Flinders, the town marshal, who shot and killed Tom Fitch while trying to arrest him. Flinders has continued to act as marshal of Vanceburg ever since the killing, and has never been locked up. Everything possible was attempted to get him behind the bars, but every move directed against him has thus far failed.

The other murder trial, which will begin Monday, is that of Spurgeon Joseph for the killing of his brother, Harry Joseph, at Glenn, Ky., some months ago. The prevailing opinion is that Joseph will be acquitted. His aged father will prove a strong witness for him and will show the shooting was done clearly in self-defense.

RIVER NEWS

The Huntington Advertiser says:

"Although for the past six weeks river packets and towboats have been tied up in harbor or hopelessly aground on sand bars waiting for rain and even motorboats and the lightest of light draft craft have found difficulty in navigating the Ohio, the rain, when it did come, came in such quantities and the river rose so quickly that rivermen throughout the valley were taken almost wholly unprepared and considerable havoc has been wrought.

"At a late hour Tuesday night, the Huntington boat house, owned and operated by Pearl Newman, sunk at its moorings off the foot of Eleventh street. It carried with it to the bottom a motorboat owned by local parties and damaged several other boats anchored nearby.

Newman, with a companion, was asleep aboard the boat and the first intelligence he had of the danger to himself and his home was the quifering of the boat as she settled to the bottom and the noise of the water creeping into his bedroom.

"He sprang out of bed and into another craft from which point he did all in his power to save the numerous power boats entrusted to his care. He succeeded in preventing further damage, but was forced to spend practically the entire night in the rain and water.

"The boat house is a large houseboat about fifty feet over all in length by twenty feet beam."

Captain R. K. Shaw, one of Marietta's old time citizens, and a veteran lawyer makes a statement that will bear watching at least. He states that we have more rain in this vicinity than formerly and accounts for it by reason of the locks and dams in the Ohio. He says the broader water surface created by the dams means that the sun has a greater area to draw water from and thus the more frequent and better rains are accounted for. You will find, he says, that rains are more frequent wherever there is the water surface to draw from.

Mr. Jordan was a widower and leaves three children: Mrs. Julia Brickey of Texas, Mrs. Mary Artis of Cincinnati and Washington Jordan, at home. Burial will take place at Mt. Zion Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Louis M. Bagby

The funeral of Louis M. Bagby, young farmer who killed himself Monday evening by blowing off the top of his head with a shot-gun, was held from the home of his widowed mother, Mrs. William Bagby, at St. Paul, Ky., Wednesday afternoon, and was one of the most largely attended funerals ever held in that part of the country. The remains were taken to Garrison, Ky., for burial, where short funeral services were conducted by Rev. Osborne of that place.

The contention of the people living in the vicinity of St. Paul is that the unfortunate man accidentally shot himself. They believe that the trigger on the gun became fastened on the latch of the closet door and caused the gun to explode.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of the infant of Oliver Hoover, who departed this life Aug. 28, aged 3 years, 6 months:

Open the door softly,
Come with silent tread;
Our darling little Anna
Is numbered with the dead.

Far beyond this world of changes,
Far beyond this world of care,
We shall meet our darling Anna
In our Father's mansions fair.

Yes, she's gone, but not forgotten
By the ones left lonely here;
And ere long we hope to meet her
In that world so bright and fair.

At rest, sweet rest thou art sleeping
In thy bed so narrow and deep;
Thou hast closed thine eyes in silence,
But in heaven thy soul roats sweet

Board Of Trade Will Have Big Time Sept. 22

The Board of Trade directors, at a meeting Wednesday, selected Friday evening, September 22, as the date for the annual meeting, election and banquet.

The big affair will be held at the new Club on West Fourth street, and will be of considerable interest. Invitations will be extended to all of the principal officials of the N. & W., C. & O. and B. & O. S-W. railways and the officers of boards of trade of surrounding towns.

President H. S. Grimes was named as a committee on invitation, and Messrs. Alan Jordan, W. B. Anderson, L. W. Bragdon were appointed a committee to arrange for the banquet.

The dinner will be complimentary to the members of the organization and there will be no charge whatever.

The board directors discussed the question of the two local telephone companies consolidating their properties, and passed resolutions favoring such action. The directors deemed such a move would redound to the best interests of the city with proper restrictions from the city council. A copy of the resolutions will be submitted to each of the companies.

The matter of Portsmouth persons attending the coming Frankfort dam celebration in Cincinnati was also discussed. The directors decided to attend the exercists and urged others to join them.

A very favorable report was made at the meeting on the prospects of Portsmouth securing the Dayton Gas Engine Company's plant. There is now little doubt that the industry will locate here.

Messrs. Will Burt, Alan Jordan, John Bauer, Albert Zoellner, Chas. Daehler were named a committee to nominate candidates for the annual election.

Despite the lowering clouds, a large crowd of happy boys and girls journeyed to Coney Island, Thursday, under the watchful care of Ensign and Mrs. Phillipson of the Salvation Army. The Army is planning to give a similar outing next year for the children of Portsmouth.

The day was spent in playing games and swinging in the big swings at Coney. At noon bountiful refreshments were served, which were speedily gobbled up by the hungry kids. Everybody reports a good time.

She Got Black Eye Instead Of Whiskey

Loaded to the running-over point, a couple whose names could not be learned, figured in an exciting runaway on Gay street Thursday morning. Jack Cropper attempted to stop the horse, but was unsuccessful.

The couple stood up in the buggy and clawed each other for the possession of a bottle of whisky. The horse was stopped near Eleventh street with no damage whatever. Mr. Cropper says they were beastly drunk and that the woman had a badly discolored eye.

BOY IS SHOT BY A HUNTER

Roy Pyles, aged 11, son of Dave Pyles, was accidentally shot on Thursday afternoon about half past two o'clock by a shot gun in the hands of Philip Grubbs, a 17 year old youth. The shooting took place near the Pyles farm on Bonse's Run. Grubbs shot at a rabbit and Pyles, who was below him in a hollow about seventy-five yards distant, received the load. He was shot in the arm, nose and stomach.

A crowd of boys residing in the neighborhood had gone hunting and were walking through the brush, half the boys on the hillside and the remainder in a hollow. Grubbs saw a rabbit dart down the hill and fired his gun. The charge of shot is thought to have gone high or it would not have struck Pyles.

Pyles gave a cry and yelled that he was shot. His comrades ran up to him, but he did not seem to be seriously injured. He walked to his home and the boys ran to Scioto ville, only half a mile distant, for a physician.

After considerable delay Dr. Hutchins was summoned, who hastily left for the Pyles home.

Tells Girl To Get A Gun And Shoot

Miss Ada Malone, the pretty West Side girl who was attacked by an unknown man at a lonely spot on the Canal road some days ago, called on Mayor Searcy on Thursday. She wanted permission to carry a gun. "Why certainly," said the mayor, barely able to suppress a smile. "Shoot the life out of him if he bothers you again," added His Honor. Miss Malone said she would do that very thing and spoke as though she meant every word of it.

Why Divines Were Put Out Of Church

It develops that the reason back of the action of the Baptist Association at its annual meeting held at Tick Ridge last week, in revoking the license of Rev. Monroe Toler and Rev. Robert Jones, was that both of the reverend gentlemen a few months ago deserted the ranks of the Baptist church, by which they had been ordained and licensed to preach, and joined with some other religious sect.

The matter came up at the conference last week, and on hearing the charges were determined to be true, and the two ministers were put out by the official board. Both Rev. Toler and Rev. Ross were present and stoutly protested their innocence.

The conference turned down the applications of William Mitchell, of Turkey Creek; Mr. Naugle, of Tick Ridge, and William Toler, of Pond Creek, who appealed to be taken into the fold and given licenses to preach the gospel.

The conference will be held next year at Pond Creek.

BOY BANDIT TRIO ROB STORES AND CONFESS

Joe Underwood, Lester Walker and Clyde Tipton, a trio of East End boys who have been causing their parents and the authorities untold worry and trouble, came to grief after robbing Jacob Hoerr's grocery at Gallia and Young streets Wednesday night.

The boys gained entrance to the store by forcing a window and loaded themselves down with candies, fruit, cigarettes, burley cub cigars, sardines, matches, etc. They failed to find any money.

The boys were asleep in one of J. S. Cooper's moving vans on upper Gallia street when surprised by Officers Cropper and Phillips. They had been feasting on some of the stolen plunder, considerable of which was still left. The patrol removed the boys and the stolen articles to headquarters.

Two pairs of spectacles and a pocket book found on the boys had been stolen by them at Kirby's ten cent store. They were "sweated" by the officers and accused of some of the recent East End store robberies, but denied they had ever entered any place, save the Hoerr store. Young Tipton and the Underwood boy, however, attempted to enter Chief W. T. McCarty's grocery on Robinson avenue Sunday evening.

Police had hunted for the trio all day Wednesday at the instance of their parents, but the youngsters were successful in eluding the officers. The Underwood boy had been absent from home for two nights. Tuesday evening he showed up at home for a few minutes and cursed his step-mother. He is a son of Robert Underwood, an N. & W. engineer, who has tried, every possible means of checking the lad, but has given it up as a hopeless task.

Mrs. Frank Walker, mother of Lester Walker, also assured the police authorities Thursday that she was willing to abide by any decision they might reach relative to her son for she had exhausted every means of keeping him out of trouble.

The boys in their confession to the police said that Carl Heffner, another East End lad, had been stealing considerable from the Portsmouth Stove and Range Company's premises.

The boys will be held until the return of Probate Judge T. C. Beatty and most likely will be committed to the State Reform School at Lancaster.

SEX INDEPENDENCE OF WOMAN, IS THE VERSION OF MRS. SINCLAIR

New York, Aug. 31.—Some remarkable views were advanced today by Mrs. Upton Sinclair in discussing her separation from her husband, and in giving her views on a woman's privilege. Among other things she said:

"I have attempted, in leaving Mr. Sinclair, to assert what I believe to be the privilege of a woman in declaring her independence in the sex relationship.

"The curiosity of the public in such matters is expressed. I believe, by the desire to see how others solve the problem without acquiring notoriety by an effort of their own.

"As matters are now arranged men have all the privileges and women all the restrictions. This is mainly because men have the economic advantage. Most women are unable to incure the risk that would follow asserting themselves.

"The woman of today is not trained to earn her own living in most cases; therefore she is not free to follow the distastes of her own soul.

"I believe in trial marriage most certainly, so that people who find themselves incompatible may part without the formality of a court's decree.

"I believe that woman is instinctively a monogamist when she finds the right man. I believe that it is the fundamental deside of every woman's nature to find that man, and her being married does not prevent her from recognizing him if she sees him. I firmly believe this to be true of all women if they would only be willing to confess it.

"I am not a believer in free love, which is a frivolous passing from one attraction to another in quick succession.

"At present a man's attitude toward woman is essentially selfish and egotistical. Men look upon women as their property, and require an ideal of chastity of which the men themselves but vaguely comprehend the meaning.

"Most young people marry with no more knowledge of each other than they are able to glean from a few months of courtship, under the most conventional circumstances.

"Our ideals of marriage are founded upon prudery and outworn forms.

"I think the mere fact that people want a divorce should be sufficient grounds for granting one.

"There are many people who talk about the ideal state, but who put off upon the next generation the effort to secure it."

East End residents are complaining of the condition of the pavement on Broadway, a short thoroughfare in that section which was recently paved. The level of the street has sunk about half a foot. The city authorities will raise the street to its proper level immediately. It is thought that the sinking was caused by paving too soon after the street was filled.

The work of laying the new sewer on Broadway has been completed. This was a difficult job as the earth was of such composition that it caved in as fast as excavations were made.

Do You Wash In Streaks?

Some women do. They can't help it. They don't have time to wash out the streaky yellow soap. They are too tired, anyway. There's no yellow in Hewitt's Easy Task Laundry Soap. It's white and pure. Makes a quick, foamy suds that chases dirt out and sends the wash out snow white to the line. Your grocer has it. Five cents a cake.

Claim Salesman Has Skipped With Money

It was stated Wednesday that Doc Holbrook, a salesman for the G. W. Davis Coal Company, of Fullerton, Ky., had absconded with $98.91 of that firm's money.

Holbrook had sold a carload of coal for the company in the vicinity of Siloam, where he has lived for the past four months. He was to have turned over his collections Saturday but failed to show up, it is claimed. Nothing had been seen or heard from him er direction.

Tuesday and Capt. Davis began an investigation. Going to Siloam he says he found Holbrook had flown, deserting his wife who when seen said she had not the slightest clue to his whereabouts.

It is said that Holbrook had deserted her once before, eloping with another man's wife. He is a native of Martinsburg, Elliott county, Ky. The local police were notified by Capt. Davis but it is believed Holbrook left in another direction.

BITE AND GOUGE IN FIERCE FAMILY SCRAP

The domestic troubles of Col. Thomas Dudley Wallinford, well known retired citizen and former government officer, reached their climax with a big row at his home, corner Front and Chillicothe streets, Wednesday evening.

The aged Colonel was assaulted by his step-son-in-law, Earl Sly, the trouble growing out of an old grudge, and which the young man was prompted to renew while under the influence of liquor.

Wallingford was seated at a table eating supper when word reached him Sly was out in front, and was going to kill him. He immediately arose and ordered the women members of the household to lock the doors. Undaunted Sly entered through a raised window. The Colonel by this time had lifted a small mace from the wall and as Sly approached swung at him. The mace struck the top of a door sill, lessening the effect of the blow. He swung again, this time hitting the side of the door.

Sly threw his arms about the aged man and began biting him on the cheeks. A desperate struggle ensued, the Colonel finally ramming a finger into the young man's eye. The screams of the excited women attracted quite a crowd. Police were summoned and Sly was arrested. The Colonel's face and clothes were covered with blood when he appeared at police headquarters. Sly was locked up but released some hours later with orders to appear Thursday morning.

Col. Wallingford decided not to prefer any charges against Sly. All he asked was that Sly and his wife seek accommodations elsewhere. The family differences were aired before Mayor Searcy, Mrs. Wallingford and daughter, Mrs. Sly, seemingly acting partial to the boy, but the Mayor held the assault was unwarranted, and particularly, when the victim's age was considered. He said that the Colonel as head of the household, had a right to direct its affairs, and Sly was ordered never to set foot in the home again. To this he readily agreed and moved his effects immediately after police court ended.

On Vacation Trip.

George Kellar, air inspector at the N. & W. Terminals, left on Thursday for Columbus and other points for a three weeks' vacation. Mr. Kellar's family accompanied him.

Lawyer To Defence Of Big Business Interests

Boston, August 31.—A protest against "further experiments in drastic legislation" against business interests was voiced by William B. Hornblower of New York in an address on "Anti-Trust Legislation and Litigation" at last night's session of the annual meeting of the American Bar Association. Mr. Hornblower declared that the Sherman anti-trust law failed to comply with what he considered the requisites of a proper statute.

"This statute," he said, "never has been and never can be literally and strictly applied. To so apply it would produce chaos in the business world. The statute must be applied, not according to its language, but according to its reasonable meaning or else it becomes the instrument of injustice and of ruin to the mercantile community.

"There is a point at which competition becomes the death of trade. Undue competition may lead to monopoly, while a reasonable regulation or a reasonable agreement between the competitors may prevent monopoly. Prohibition of all combinations and of all restraint of trade is unwise. Civilization means co-operation; co-operation means combination; combination means restraint of competition."

Touching on the criminal aspect of the Sherman Law, Mr. Hornblower said:

"Public opinion appears now to be clamoring for victims. It is not satisfied with damages or injunctions or possible receiverships, but punishment of individuals is loudly called for. Protests are even made against mere pecuniary fines. Actual imprisonment of the offenders is demanded.

"For myself, I do not hesitate to say that the sweeping penal provisions of this law are unwise and unjust, and should be made more limited in their scope and much more definite and certain. Acts of moral turpitude, if properly defined in advance, may well be made criminal. Such acts of moral turpitude are, for instance, the use of unfair means to suppress competition and to crush out rivals and agreements with competitors to raise prices or to restrict production. To make 'restraint of trade' criminal, irrespective of its character and purposes and irrespective of the methods pursued to accomplish the restraint, is to punish alike the intentional malefactor and the honorable and upright business man who has been guilty of a technical violation of a prohibitory law."

"Another suggestion has been recently exploited and has the support of able advocates, namely, the creation by the Federal Government of a commission or a number of commissions who shall have power to regulate prices of articles of interest to commerce. To my mind, this is an appalling suggestion. Nothing short of omniscience can enable such a commission to perform its work with intelligence and with safety to the best interests of producer and consumer.

"I believe that the Sherman law as interpreted and enforced by the supreme court is quite adequate, so far, at least, as civil remedies are concerned, to meet any further attempts at dangerous aggregations of capital."

Guns Used In Fight In Camp At Delano

Chillicothe, Aug. 31—The N. & W. construction camp, near Delano which was the scene of a murder last Sunday afternoon, a Negro named Palmer shooting and killing an unknown Negro, was the scene of another affray Tuesday evening, which, however, did not prove serious. The trouble occurred between one of the construction laborers, named Dudley, and George Phillipi, a cook in the camp. According to Phillipi's story, he was just getting ready to fry a piece of meat when Dudley came into the cooking car and attempted to take it away from him.

Words followed and then the two finally got to scuffling. Dudley finally drew a big revolver and began shooting. Two of the bullets took effect, both of them striking Phillipi in the right thigh. The injured man was brought to this city on the traction car and taken immediately to the hospital.

Dr. Harry Brown was called in attendance and both bullets were immediately probed for, located and extracted. Both wounds proved superficial and no serious results are anticipated. As far as can be learned, no arrests have been made. Dudley made his get-away after the fight.

JACKSON CO. FARMERS SHIP PRODUCE AWAY

Editor D. W. Williams, of the Jackson Standard-Journal, says in this week's issue of his paper:

"I spent Wednesday afternoon rambling among some orchards that I know, and came to Vaughn's station in time to see the accommodation pass by.

"Several farmers were there with cans of cream to be delivered in Columbus. They contain 41 lbs net, and reach Columbus via Hamden and Midland about eleven at night.

"I was told that eight farmers now ship their cream at that small station, thus doing away with much hard work for the farmers' wives, at the same time reducing the quantity of marketable butter in this county.

"The shipments from other stations on the Portsmouth Branch are said to be much larger, and doubtless there are cream shipments at the majority of the stations in this county, some farmers shipping as much as $100 worth of cream in some months.

"In addition to this, hucksters buy up butter on the farms, to be delivered in Wellston, Gallipolis, Ironton, Portsmouth, Beaver and Chillicothe, and their wagons make weekly and some semi-weekly trips to farms that are in sight of the court house steeple.

"The farmers are shipping their cream and selling their butter and eggs to hucksters, for the best reason in the world, viz: because there is more profit and satisfaction about it than in trying to dispose of it in the Jackson market.

"Farmers bring some ugly charges against Jackson merchants, and the Business Men's Association should investigate the matter. It has come to a pretty pass, if the farmer is to be robbed of his home market," of which politicians love to talk so much.

"Ugly charges are made by others than farmers, and the citizens of Jackson should demand a thorough investigation. If the Business Men's Association can not find out why 2 cent cabbage cost the consumers 5 cents, and why a farmer can not get more than $1.25 for potatoes that retail for $2.40, perhaps the Grand Jury should get busy.

"Who is responsible for circulating the false report every year that an ordinance prohibits farmers from peddling produce in town? A farmer stopped at this office Monday afternoon to inquire about this matter."

Engine Grease As Butter

New York, Aug. 31—Chief Engineer William Richmond of the steamer Asbury Park, the Central New Jersey's Sandy Hook line, ordered a tub of Albany grease, which has a golden yellow color, to lubricate his engines. Richmond raised a row when he did not get the grease, then learned that it had been delivered.

The steamer was searched high and low. At last the tub, nearly empty, was found in a corner of the chef's ice box yesterday. William Richland, the chef, had read the "Richmond" on the tub as "Richlin" and had mistaken the grease for butter he had ordered.

Many Wall street lawyers and brokers who have summer homes on the Jersey shore commute on the boat and often have meals aboard. But no complaints about the butter have been brought to the chef for a week.

Big Apple Crop In Jackson County

The Jackson Standard-Journal says:

"It is reported that D. F. Jones and Dan Alban have contracted to sell their apple crops to Tony Pusateri of this city. The price reported is 50 cents, and the crops may reach 12000 bushels.

"Jackson county people never had a larger or finer crop of apples. Even the wildings in the fence rows are loaded down with fruit. There are so many apples on the majority of trees that they will be exhausted and many will die, while others will not bear for several years.

"53 trees. This gives an idea of the Experiment Station visited the Alban orchard to give a demonstration in thinning the crop. It is said that he picked 50,000 apples from 53 trees. This gives an idea of the amount of thinning necessary.

"The windstorm Aug. 19, while it did not knock many apples from the trees, did great damage in many orchards by causing overloaded branches to break in two. Nearly every old orchard lost a tree or two from this cause.

MR. A. W. PIATT SELL FARM

Armor W. Piatt, of Friendship, has disposed of his Turkey Creek farm to Jacob Hetzel, of the firm of A. Giesler & Company, Market street meat dealers. The farm comprises 75 acres and will be used by the new owner as a pasture for live stock. Mr. Piatt expects to leave Friendship, but is undecided as to whether he will move to Portsmouth or locate out West.

RUN DOWN BY TRAIN

John E. Wharton, a civil engineer in the employ of the N. & W. railway, was run down by a train near Roanoke Wedesday and was badly hurt. He is quite well known here by the engineers employed on this division of the road. Mr. Wharton failed to see the train until it was within a few feet of him. It sideswiped him and knocked him out of the way.

KNU AUTOMATIC — EYE GLASS

It is a mistake to put off wearing glasses until actually compelled to put them on. When your sight begins to fail and you cannot see clearly small objects held at the proper distance from the eyes, then is the time to consult an optician. Carr's optical service is the kind that gives satisfaction. If your eyes are troubling you in any way come in and have an examination made of them.

MARCOFFSKY GETS INTO A BAD SCRAPE

N. H. Marcoffsky, who formerly conducted a pawn shop and jewelry store on West Second street, this city, but who has been in Huntington for several years, is in serious trouble, according to the Huntington Herald-Dispatch, which says:

"N. H. Marcoffsky, a Fourth avenue jeweler, was arrested at 7 o'clock last evening on a warrant sworn out early yesterday morning by C. M. Frayne, charging him with attempted criminal assault on his daughter, Lossie Frayne, aged 17. The arrest was made by Officer Charles Watts and resulted in a battle between the two men, according to reports, in which it is alleged Marcoffsky was knocked down by the officer's club and his head laid open, necessitating the attentions of a physician. The accused was taken before Squire Stewart, where his hearing was set for 4 o'clock this afternoon. He gave bond for his appearance with B. V. Bromfield as surety.

"The story is somewhat sensational as related by Captain of Police Clingenpeel, who states that he first became familiar with the facts by seeing Marcoffsky approach the girl as she was standing at Third avenue and Tenth street, presumably waiting for a car to take her to her home at Twelfth avenue and Nineteenth street. She is employed at a down town refreshment parlor. After talking for a few moments, Marcoffsky and the girl started off up Tenth street, and Capt. Clingenpeel states that he overheard her say as they passed, "I must have missed my car or they are not running," to which Marcoffsky replied, the officer alleges, that if she would just come around to his store he would order a cab for her. Watching, he saw Marcoffsky take the girl into the store. After coming hurriedly out of the place and seeing the officer, she stopped and complained to him. He then took her home in a cab and a statement was made to her father, who swore out a warrant for Marcoffsky at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Officer Watts serving it at 7 o'clock last night.

"Marcoffsky claims that the proceedings were instituted for purposes of blackmail."

THE policy of this company has merit, the kind that wins, the kind that helps any institution forge ahead, hence our phenominal growth. An institution which creates one time customers is always gasping for real business breath. It is permanent clients that build up, whether they have actually the occasion to do it directly or take pleasure in spreading broadcast the fact that they were treated right, thus increasing public confidence.

The good will of our clients has been one of the greatest factors in the building up of the institution, which indicates that the efforts that have brought it success were backed above all by a desire to be fair and render better service than any other. INOCULATED OFFICERS

Washington, Aug. 31—Anti-typhoid inoculation, heretofore voluntary in the army, was today made compulsory by Secretary Stimson, and orders will be put into execution by Gen. Wood, chief of the staff.

"It is hoped," said Surgeon-General Torney, "that this vaccine will make all troops immune from typhoid fever. Every officer and man will be vaccinated. This task will take three years."

Secretary Stimson was himself vaccinated with the anti-typhoid serum by Major Russell last June. Twenty days later he was declared immune. He suffered no ill effects.

Dictionary Freed Him

Thompsonville, Conn., Aug. 31—"Corpse—the principal part of a human body; the trunk as differentiated from the head and limbs."

This definition in a dictionary freed today Arthur R. Pillsbury, a medical college student, and George Hargreaves, sexton of the village cemetery, who admitted taking the skull of a body from the cemetery and were charged with "robbing a grave of a corpse."

This dictionary's definition of "corpse" was the sole defense. The court discharged the prisoners.

"I don't see that there's any law to prevent a whole class of medical students from excavating in the town cemetery provided they will be content with such trifling trophies as the skulls and limbs of prominent citizens," observed the prosecuting attorney.

The legislature will be asked to amend the loosely-drawn statute.

Borrowing to Build

Building and Loan Associations offer the safest form of mortgage that can be obtained by the borrower, who is a genuine home owner. Different associations have different plans on which money is advanced but they all conform to a general scheme. The Portsmouth Savings & Loan Company, in the Opera House Building, have a splendid plan for borrowers, a plan whereby they reduce the principal each six months for the borrower and the payments may be made monthly if so desired. This plan is worth investigating.

ANGER OF EXHIBITORS CENTERS ON SANDLES

Columbus, O., Aug. 31.—Probably 70 per cent of the exhibitors of the State Fair this year are so angered because Secretary Sandles of the State Fair board said they took their passes down town and traded them off for whisky and to pay hotel bills, that they declare they will not be at the fair next year.

It also develops that there is a friction within the fair board on account of the attitude toward exhibitors and that the board is not a unit in the stand which has been taken.

"I have been coming to the State Fair for 12 years with my exhibits," says one man who shows farm implements, "and I can say to you that the state of Ohio will either have to put Sandles out of the position as secretary or he will kill the State fair. The fair is changing to a fair of exhibits to a collection of state selling trash. I do not have to point it out to you. Just look around and see the change in this fair in the past two years. Look at the reputable business firms which have been insulted and driven from the grounds.

"I take the position that the State Fair is a bigger thing than the State Fair board and a bigger thing than Pat Sandles and it is time someone wakens up to the fact that he has done a damage to the State Fair that it will take several years to recover from.

"Here next year? Yes, if there is a new secretary. If Sandles is here, count me out. Secretary Sandles' statement concerning whisky is not the only one which has angered the exhibitors. The committee went back to the four officers to get their petition after the board had refused their request for two passes each, and the secretary refused to give it up and said the reason was that he intended to publish the list of 173 signers for the benefit of the farmers of the state, to show the farmers that these men wanted to get in free and compel the farmer to pay his half dollar."

Still another charge they make is that Secretary Sandles resorted to misstatement of facts in his speech to the exhibitors Tuesday evening. Probably 200 went to present the petition for passes. E. H. Hoffman of Columbus, presented the case of the exhibitors. Mr. Sandles in reply, said that the board was unanimously against the issuing of any passes.

This, the exhibitors say, is not true, but that Members Beidler and Farnsworth have both assured some of them that they think the board is making a great mistake and that they will make an effort to have the condition changed.

HAS RELIC OF OLDEN TIMES

Thomas G. Calvert has in his possession an old time Arithmetic that is one of the most interesting relics of school days a hundred years ago that could be imagined. It is the "Arithmetic" used by his grandfather, John Hardy Hoskinson. It is not such a printed book as the boys and girls use today, but is more like a copy book, all of the problems being worked out in a neat manner by the pupil. The pages bear dates in the year 1815.

The book was for some time at Columbus in the Capital building, but has again been given back to the Calvert family.

ACCEPTED RESIGNATION OF REV. MR. ANTHONY

PASTOR TELLS ABOUT HIS TROUBLE

At a meeting of the congregation of the Grandview avenue Christian church held Wednesday night, it was voted to accept the resignation of Rev. A. H. Anthony, as pastor of the church. This action followed a statement made by Rev. Anthony the first part of this week, in which he tendered his resignation, pending action last evening. The official board submitted the matter to a congregational vote.

Two officials of the church when interviewed Thursday, stated that Rev. Anthony was a good man and an earnest preacher, but that they thought he was not exactly fitted to meet the needs of the Grandview avenue church.

William D. Puckett, an official of the church, stated that for some time the Grandview avenue church had been split up into two factions. "Both Rev. Anthony and the official board discovered that he was apparently unable to close the breech," said Mr. Puckett, "so we both thought it best for him to leave."

Rev. Anthony has made a good impression locally, and has worked hard for his church. His many friends regret that he finds it necessary to seek another location. He is sincere, and a good talker.

"If Christ should come to some churches to preach, he would be crucified," said Rev. Anthony this morning, in discussing the matter of his resignation. He laid the trouble which resulted in his resignation at the door of factions in the church.

"I have no bitterness against anyone in my heart," said Rev. Anthony. "The official board of the church accepted the resignation which I tendered them, asking for a reasonable time and support until I could find another field of work.

"It is supposed that when a pastor takes a church it is for a year at least, but when any dissatisfaction that threatens to obstruct the work of the gospel appears, it is best sometimes for the pastor to sever his relations sooner. For the sake of harmony and peace in the church I thought it wise to send in my resignation, and the board probably acted in the same spirit."

Rev. Anthony said he expected to remain and preach for his present congregation until Providence opened up a new field for him.

SIMCOX MAY BE SENT BACK TO THE ASYLUM

Joe Simcox, a garbage hauler, went on a rampage at his home, corner Front and Offnere streets, Thursday morning.

Simcox is reported to have villified his family and caused quite an uproar in the neighborhood. Deputy Sheriff Pete Smith and Officers Diffen and Stokley placed him under arrest and a lunacy charge will be preferred against him. Simcox was in the asylum once before.

While returning with their man in a buggy, Officer Diffen lost his quest. revolver. It was found on the streets by little Johnny Kirsch, who promptly brought it to police headquarters and was handsomely rewarded for his honesty.

The hearing of Joe Simcox, the Offnere street man arrested and locked up on a lunacy charge, Thursday, has been set for Saturday at ten o'clock, in probate court.

Drs. P. J. Kline and E. O. McCall, as examining physicians, have been summoned to testify as to the sanity of the defendant at the inquest.

Says Kingdom Of Christ Is Coming

Dr. Hall of New York, gave a free lecture in the Flood & Blake hall Wednesday night under the auspices of the International Bible Students Association. The doctor is a follower of Pastor Russell and talks along the same lines.

REFUSED TO GO BACK WITHOUT REQUISITION

Claris Wood, a Veneer works' employe, was arrested at his home on East Third street late Wednesday night for the Vanceburg, Ky., authorities.

Wood was wanted at Vanceburg on an old indictment of having assaulted Dr. J. W. Berry, of Quincy, Ky., who since has died. The assault occurred some years ago and Wood was arrested twice before, but always refused to return to Lewis county without requisition papers. It developed that Deputy Sheriff Hendrickson, who caused Wood's arrest Wednesday night, also failed to get the necessary papers, and Attorney R. C. Myers, acting for Wood, Thursday morning demanded the prisoner's release. Chief McCarty accordingly let Wood out on his own recognizance.

Rob Shoeworker At Point Of Revolver

The daring highwaymen that have infested South Portsmouth for the past month, renewed their work Wednesday night after a brief respite. They had been resting on their laurels.

As Charles Reed, a local shoeworker, neared the C. & O. ferry landing last night at 10 o'clock he looked squarely into the barrel of a big revolver. Of course he stopped.

With the gun pointed against right temple Reed never uttered a word when two men rifled his pockets. Here is what they secured: $11 in currency, a valuable solid silver cigarette case, a gold watch valued at $30 and two gold rings, which the footpads compelled him to take off his fingers and turn over to them.

Reed admitted Thursday that he had been drinking, but says he was not intoxicated by any means. He says the two men wore dark suits, slouch hats and had on new tan shoes. They emerged from the high trestle below South Portsmouth and got in front of him as he went to go down the hill that led to the ferryboat.

One of the men wore a mustache and appeared to be about 35 years old. The other was not over 22 or 23.

The thieves also relieved Reed of a gold locket which he carried in his vest pocket, and which contained the only picture he has of his mother. Reed is about 27 years of age and boards on East Eighth street. He came here a year ago from Barnesville, Ohio.

BIG COAL FLEET IS COMING DOWN

From reports above, there has been a good, substantial rainfall in the Upper Ohio and Kanawha valleys and both rivers are rising fast all along the way and insuring sufficient water at Pittsburg to ship out a big run of coal for the lower river markets.

The Kanawha operators will make an effort to get two runs from the Kanawha river before the rise passes Point Pleasant.

A fleet of towboats with barges containing a shipment of ten million bushels of black diamonds left Pittsburg last night on the rise and is now enroute. The fleet is expected to begin passing here Saturday noon.

The swell in the stage of the river will enable all the big steamers to resume operations and it is expected that all will be back in their regular trade by the latter part of the week. The Cincinnati and Pittsburg Packet line of steamers, including the Virginia, will resume traffic Saturday.

With a stage of 10.0 feet recorded on the government gauge at the foot of Madison street at 10 a. m., Thursday, the Ohio river was rising rapidly here at that hour. At other points the climb of the water was equally marked.

Many members of The Club have already promised to be on hand at the meeting of all members that will be held at the new quarters on West Fourth street on Friday evening at 7:30. This will be a good business meeting and the new quarters will be a revelation to many.

New Rugs for a Nickel.

When the rugs and carpets grow dingy, don't throw them away as long as the pile and nap remain. You can renew the original brightness of color without taking them up—scrub the rug or carpet with hot suds made from Hewitt's Easy Task Soap, just as you would scrub the bare floor, then wipe up the suds with a damp cloth.

Makes Serious Charge Against His Wife

Ira H. Walker, a young shoeworker, employed at the Lloyd-Adams factory, called at police headquarters Wednesday night and again Thursday to lodge complaint against his wife.

Walker told Chief McCarty he had positive information that since leaving him last Thursday his wife, Mrs. Viola James-Wallace had been entertaining other men at her new abode. He mentioned one man's name. He himself had gone to the house and satisfied himself of the fact. He asked that the place be raided and the chief promised to make some inquiries to see if such a cause would be justified.

The young couple were married shortly before Christmas of last year and have been living on Bond street between Front and Second. Things went well until Wallace discovered that his wife was always supplied with money he knew she had not received of him. She refused to explain her new source of revenue. At another time he found Viola sporting a locket. When he asked her who had presented her with it she told him it was none of his business.

One night last week after returning home from a shopping expedition he learned some other man had been talking to his wife throughout the time he was absent. A quarrel ensued and next day she left home remaining away for several days when they divided their effects. Most of the furniture was returned to an installment house after Mrs. Chas. Wallace, a boarding housekeeper, of East Ninth street and mother of Ira had made futile efforts to effect a reconciliation between the young couple.

BAREFOOT BOY SAVES TRAIN

Flagged by a barefoot boy not over ten years of age, the crew in charge of extra freight train N. & W. No. 1074 was saved from figuring in a disastrous wreck Wednesday afternoon at Webb, a small station on the Big Sandy division.

The heavy rains had loosened thirty tons of rock and dirt, which were piled high on the tracks. The little lad flagged the crew with his broad-rimmed straw hat, and Engineer Mark Pleasant, of this city, who was in charge of the train, stopped his engine within a hundred feet of the landslide. It was a very narrow escape and members of the crew will see that the little fellow is properly rewarded for his act.

The debris was fully twenty-five feet high, as one side of a hill gave way. The avalanche blocked traffic on this division for ten hours. It was the worst landslide the N. & W. wrecking crews have had to handle in many months.

Life Saved at Death's Door

Now I weigh 187 pounds and have been well and strong for years." Quick, safe, sure, it's the best remedy on earth for coughs, colds, la grippe, asthma, croup, and all throat and lung troubles. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by The Fisher & Streich Pharmacy.

Writes About Death Of David R. Lock

Editor Times:- I have read the article in Tuesday's Times about the death of David R. Lock, of Newport, Ky., and am moved to say I don't recollect having anywhere seen, outside the covers of Baron Munchausen, a story of the same length containing a greater number of inaccuracies. The writer starts off by saying David R. Lock "lived with his brother, Dr. John Lock, in the property where Trinity church is now located." All right as to location, but all wrong as to other details. "Dave" Lock, as he was known all his life, lived at that location a few years with his father and mother and brothers and sisters. John Lock, the older brother, was a plasterer and actor, and Dave was only a husky boy. The Locks came from England, and the senior Lock carried on a market garden at the point named. There were two Johns in the family, John F. and John B. The latter is still residing near Ft. Thomas. David also learned the trade of plasterer.

Speaking of David Lock, the article says: "He raised a company during the war, in which were men from Waverly, etc," and that he was captured during the struggle. Nothing doing. John F. Lock raised a company and placed it in the Thirty-third Ohio Regiment, was promoted from captain to major, and then to lieutenant colonel.

Dave Lock enlisted as a private in a regiment of Kentucky cavalry, was promoted to a lieutenancy for conspicuous bravery, was taken prisoner and confined in Libby prison. In the grand review in Washington when the war was over Lock marched with those who had been confined in Confederate prisons, and was introduced to President Lincoln as one who had quite a record as a soldier.

The writer says, "Mr. Lock (presumably Dave) married a daughter of Arel Glover, for whom Glover street was named." All wrong. David Lock married a Newport lady. John F. Lock married the daughter of Arel Glover, a near neighbor, but Glover street was not named for Artel, but for Hon. Elijah B. Glover, owner of the property through which the present Glover street runs.

John F. Lock quit plastering and studied medicine, eventually becoming city physician of Newport. He has been dead several years, but members of his family are still honored visitors in Portsmouth.

Men who were chums of "Dave" Lock in former days are numerous in Portsmouth, and members of the Thirty-third regiment pleasantly recall their former comrade, Colonel John F. Lock.

ONE WHO KNEW THEM.

State House Talk

Columbus, O., Aug. 31.—The no-pass rule of "Pat" Sandles, secretary of the state board of agriculture, is bringing down upon his devoted head the maledictions of the exhibitors at the state fair, who are compelled to pay 50 cents every time they enter the grounds. As they are obliged to go in and out several times daily, they are put to considerable expense. The majority of the exhibitors declare that unless the rule they object to is revoked they will not exhibit at the fair any more. On Monday when the fair opened, the exhibitors threatened to withdraw unless they were permitted to go in and out without being obliged to pay an admission. To prevent them from removing their exhibits, Secretary Sandles has had the National Guard soldiers who are performing police duty on the grounds, march up and down in front of the exhibits, presumably for the purpose of preventing their removal, should the exhibitors essay to carry out their threat. The exhibitors also claim that Sandles said that they took their passes down town and traded them for whiskey, and to pay their hotel bills. These stories have increased their ire and what they are saying about the secretary of the board must make his ears burn these days. They have even gone so far as to start a movement to have him ousted from his job. Notwithstanding the numerous ructions, big crowds are attending the fair daily, and from a financial standpoint, it will probably be a success.

In an opinion to the state pardon board, Attorney General Hogan rules that unless there is evidence to indicate innocence, no person convicted of first degree murder may be pardoned or paroled. However, a commutation may be granted in such cases. The ruling was asked for by the board to guide it in the consideration of several cases now before it. This ruling will make it more difficult for first degree murderers to obtain their freedom.

Sex hygiene is to be taught in the public schools in Columbus under the direction of the Columbus Philanthropic Council. This is to be done as an experiment, and if it proves to be successful, a state-wide movement will be started for similar instruction in all public schools. A bill for this was before the legislature last winter, but it failed to pass. There is a diversity of opinion as to whether or not such instruction should be given. The problem is one which is being studied all over the country by organizations promoting social betterment.

Within a few days copies of the election laws in pamphlet form, including the laws passed by the legislature this year, bearing on elections, will be sent to each election board in the state by Secretary of State Graves. There will be 7,500 copies for distribution.

Chief Clerk Charles W. Kempel, of the House of Representatives, is endeavoring to secure a complete set of legislative journals from the time of the adoption of the present constitution in 1851, down to the present time. A number of journals are missing, and if anybody will send in the missing numbers to him, the favor will be very much appreciated. The numbers which are out are for the years 1852, to 1856, inclusive, 1860, 1864, 1865, 1868, 1869, 1875, 1882 and 1895.

The recall would not be out of place down in Blanchester according to a report on that village by State Examiner C. E. Lippincott. The councilmen down there released from liability the sureties on a bond given to secure a deposit of more than $2,500 lost by the municipality when the Blanchester bank failed. It is a private institution, and the owner of the bank and others, were on the bond given to guarantee the safety of the deposit. Council agreed to take $100 and release the bondsmen, but later cut this to $1. The examiner holds that the action of council did not absolve the bondsmen from liability and that they must make good the loss sustained by the municipality.

The Ohio Good Roads Federation will endeavor to secure the inclusion in the new state constitution, of a provision that will enable generous appropriations to be made for good road purposes. Under the present constitution, the bond issue limit of $750,000, which sum is regarded as ridiculously small when it is considered that the grand duplicate of Ohio will exceed six billion dollars. It is proposed to expand the bond issue limit so that one per cent. of the grand limit will be available for good roads purposes. A campaign has been started to work up sentiment in favor of this.

DAISY BUCHANAN TELLS STORY OF HER ABDUCTION

The Chillicothe News-Advertiser of Wednesday, gave these details of the sensational abduction of Daisy Buchanan, 15-year-old Lucasville girl, mention of which was made in Wednesday's Times:

"Raleigh Kuder, a chauffeur, who has been previously arrested twice, is in trouble again. This time he has cheated justice temporarily by flight. While under bond for resisting a police officer while the latter was reprimanding him for making himself obnoxious to passengers at the Scioto Valley Traction terminal some time ago, he and a boy named Wilson, are charged by Daisy Buchanan, a 15-year-old girl of Lucasville, Ohio, with having criminally assaulted her near this city on Monday afternoon.

"On Monday morning the Buchanan girl, who had been visiting her brother, R. A. Buchanan of Washington, arrived in this city on a C., H. & D. train. At the station she took Kuder's taxicab and directed him to drive her to the N. & W. depot, where she intended to take the N. & W. evening train back to her home at Lucasville. Kuder did not leave her at the N. & W., but like a beast watching his prey, began to hang around, trying to engage her in conversation, proposing taxicab rides and the like until the poor girl, worried to weariness by his advances, finally told him that she had to buy some stamps. She said this in order to get rid of him.

"Finally Kuder asked her to get into the automobile, telling her he would take her some place where she could buy stamps and the girl unfortunately complied with his request. No sooner in the automobile than Kuder started off at a good rate of speed in a direction that leads out across the Bridge street river bridge onto the Marietta road. A boy named Wilson was also in the machine.

"The girl seeing that the machine was leaving the city, became alarmed and begged of Kuder to turn back, but he only laughed at her misery and sped on farther out the Marietta road into the "Narrows," or that wild and rough hillside road that skirts the east bank of the Scioto above the city.

"Here the machine stopped and the criminal intentions of the male occupants of the machine were made known to the girl. The poor girl screamed and begged the boys to show her mercy, but they only choked her cries and assaulted her in turn.

"They then brought her back to this city, and let her out at the N. & W. in time to catch a train on her homeward journey. In waiting for her train, the girl with forlorn aspect and tear-stained face, caught the eye of W. E. Hedrick, a baggage man. He had seen Kuder, hanging around the girl earlier in the day and knew it was for no good.

"What's the matter, sister?" said Hedrick to the girl.

At first the girl wanted to conceal her shame.

"Do you know that you were out with a bad actor," said Hedrick.

"I knew it," replied the girl, bursting into tears, and soon she had told him her whole wretched story, in the presence of another man named Cook.

"The girl was advised to go home to Lucasville, tell her mother all and return to the city and prepare charges against her assailants. She promised she would and left on the evening southbound N. & W. train. Hedrick notified Captain J. F. Young, of the B. & O. police headquarters and the human officer, George Hamm, was also notified of the matter.

"It was kept very quiet and Wednesday morning, the girl, accompanied by L. B. Funk, a Lucasville newspaper man, arrived in this city to file charges. Affidavits were filed in the juvenile court against the girl, charging her with being a delinquent child, and against Raleigh Kuder and Raymond B. Wilson, charging them with contributing to her delinquency. In the meantime, it was discovered that both Kuder and Wilson had either left the city or gone into hiding somewhere, and a search for them was immediately started.

"Wilson had told his father, it is claimed, that he was in trouble and made it appear that the girl was all to the bad. His father has not the slightest idea of his whereabouts.

"Wilson claimed that the girl had been offered money and that she had accepted it. The girl denies this, however. Whether it is true or not, their tampering with a 15-year-old girl will make it bad for both of them. The girl is the daughter of Henry Buchanan, an old soldier. The date of the hearing has not yet been set."

Champs Walloped Lanks In 2 Games

(By F. W. Sheridan.)

With mud knee deep and with a handful of spectators in the grand stand, the Chesty Champs of ours took both ends of a double header from the Lowly Lanks of Fairfield county, Wednesday afternoon, the first one by the score of 3 to 1 and the afternoon by the tune of 4 to 1. Harter and Oris were the opposing pitchers in the matinee, while Moore opposed Cheney in the wind-up. Both games were well played, despite the soft footing and the handful of fans who were present saw two teams battle each other with the same tenacity that marks a scrap between a couple of thoroughbred bride-bull pups.

Incidentally, the fans for the only time in their lives, saw an umpire in dire distress. The arbitrator, Mr. Johnson, who hibernates in the sacred confines of the Ancient Metropolis, pulled off a stunt that bespoke the impression that some day he might become the "White Man's Hope." The actions of Mr. Johnson placed him right on the brink of getting a licking, but thanks to the cool head of Jimmy Edwards, Portsmouth's crack first sacker. Mr. Johnson was finally handed over to his bride in a very presentable condition. Mr. Johnson lost his head for a few moments, but to his credit be it said that he displayed plenty of grit, and was perfectly willing to mix it up with any one that dared come within the hitting radius of that mask of his which he flung around his head like an old woman turning "flannel cakes" for breakfast.

The first game was a pitchers battle between Frank Harter, the Sucker State Phenom, and Mr. Oris, a young country lad, who made his debut into the professional ranks only a few short weeks ago. Harter had all the best of the encounter and really should have gotten by with a shut out, for a wild pitch on his part put a man in position to score from third base, otherwise the McKeesport lad would have presented the invaders with nine big horse collars.

Oris pitched a pretty fair sort of a game, but weakened and the Champs did not experience much difficulty in copping the game, thanks to the timely stick work of "Red" Winklen, whose beautiful triple in the first game paved the way to victory.

The Champs were the first to score and they were not long about getting to that point either. It happened in the second inning, when after two men were out, Edwards, who hit like a fiend all day, clubbed a beauty to left. Attorney Potts whipped one to right and then it was that Whalen stepped into the catchum. Picking out one that suited his aesthetic taste, he laid against it with all his weight, the ball pulling up in deep center, and when it was returned to the infield, Whalen was proudly resting on third, while Edwards and Potts were seated comfortably on the bench. The hit would have been good for a home run on any field.

In the sixth the Champs made one more and should have had at least two, for in this frame, Mr. Oris got out of the orbit of steadiness and walked three men. Weinberg was the recipient of his first favor, and Goodrich sent him down, of course. Edwards drove a high fly that Epler devoured, but Potts walked. Whereupon Whalen lifted a beauty to middle, Wenny coming over the plate. Harter walked, but Homer Cain accomplained to his own precinct.

The Lanks made theirs in the sixth. After Edmonson had died, Geib drove a double to left, took third on a wild pitch and came across on Porter's out at third. The score:

Second Game.

The aftermath was credited to the Champs, simply because "Boss" Cheney, after pitching the most brilliant kind of ball for five innings, weakened perceptibly in the sixth and from that time on was a pipe for the locals. In the meantime "Peggy" Moore, big and brave, was going great guns for the home lads. True, the visitors had made one run off his delivery, but had the big chap received his just desserts he would have gazed on a long row of ciphers opposite the word "Lancaster" that decorated the score board.

Some wonderful fielding stunts were pulled off in this engagement, the most notable being turned in by Homer Cain, speedy middle gardener of the locals, who robbed Mr. Rudolph Rolph of a sure enough home run in the sixth inning, when he speared in one hand a terrific liner as it shot fenceward. Cain had slightly misjudged the ball, which was traveling with the force of a bullet, which made his catch all the more remarkable. Cain took the ball over his left shoulder, when he jumped high in the air and while still off his balance plucked the ball like a pretty country lassie picking cherries. It was one of the most remarkable catches ever seen on the grounds and the popular little fielder was compelled to doff his cap to the 150 spectators who were present.

The Lanks were the first to score, getting off at the jump. For once in his life Conley made a hit, a line drive to left. Crouch sacrificed and on Epler's single to Whalen that went between the sorrel top's legs, Conley had legged it over the plate. Rudolph and Edmonson were circled. After this the Lanks made but five hits off Moore and they were scattered through as many innings, and simply helped the batters to add a few points to their swalling averages. It looked pretty bad for the champs until the sixth frame, when, thanks to a long triple by John Weinberg, the Champs broke the ice. Homer Cain fanned for once in his life, but Emmett got in the way of a pitched ball and took his base. Whereupon he proceeded to steal second. The little fellow had his wishbone across the sack, when Brigham Young took Geib's high chuck out of the atmosphere. No one for a moment thought the umps would call Cain out, but he did that very thing. The decision was the worst that has been made on these grounds since they became enclosed and Manager Childs and der umps had it out right then and there. Beers also chimed in with a suggestion that Johnson's eyesight was failing him and the upstart of the whole proceedings was that the umps, unable to control his pent up feelings allowed himself to call Beers an ugly name and to add to his actions, struck at the Sioux City Brave with his mask four times. It looked bad for a mêlée, but peace was finally restored and the fans soon forgot the incident specially after Weinberg, who stepped to the plate after Conwell had walked, drove one to deep center for a resounding triple.

In the seventh the Champs made two more. Edwards started it with a single and Potts got him home. Whalen's single scored Edwards. Moore walked. H. Cain stabbed niftily to second, filling the sacks. Again did little Potts get in the path of a pitched ball, forcing Whalen home with the third run of the game. Conwell drove a liner to left that Mr. Crouch muffed, and flipping the ball to second doubled H. Cain. In the eighth a single by Weinberg sacrificed by Goodrich and out by Edwards and a single by Potts scored Wenny, Whalen followed with a double but Potts only made third, thinking the ball would roll foul. Pretty fair for one afternoon's work, eh, buddy. The score:

TO WATCH DRAWING OF PRIZE PACKAGES

Billy Doyle, official scout for the St. Louis Americans will leave Friday for Cincinnati, where he will attend the drawing of prizes from the minor leagues. Inasmuch as the drafting takes place that day, Billy wants to be on hand to advise Owner Hedges as to the promising players in the several leagues through which he has scouted this season. Billy says he is confident that at least three of the players on the Champ's roster will be drafted. It is known that he is sweet on the Cain brothers as well as Irish Conwell. Doyle has his first lemon to yet pluck for the Browns and he is looked upon as one of the best judges of young ball players in the country.

WON'T PLAY THE GAMES

Chillicothe, O., Aug. 31.—Manager Childs in Portsmouth, is very anxious for a post season series with Chillicothe, but will hardly have his wish gratified. Many of the local boys will hunery away on Tuesday, being anxious to get home. Besides, it would not be interesting unless the teams should be tied at the end of the season.

Why the Mackmen Are In First Place

Just why the Athletics are at the top of the American league pennant race and likely to give the winners in the National chase a good lusky wallop is disclosed by a brief review of the last thirty-six games "Mack's nine" have played.

During this period the White Elephants have won 25 and lost 11 contests. Their opponents in the 36 games have made 304 hits, while Philadelphia has made 315 hits. Their opponents have made 21 errors and the champions but 15 errors. There's a reason for all things.

Starting off the season poorly, while the Detroit club was fairly setting the league ablaze, they are now going at a good gait. They now have 23 more games at home and 10 more on the road, while Detroit has but four more games on its home lot and 26 on foreign fields.

Unless a remarkable reversion of form takes place it is not exactly easy to figure how the world's championship of the diamond is going to be anywhere else than in the City of Brotherly Love this fall.

Hammond Is Going Fine For Babes

Chillicothe, O., Aug. 31.—In the ten games played so far since the return of the Babes, Artie Hammond has made eleven hits at a .361 clip. The diminutive third-sacker may not have proved much of a hitter when with the Cobs, but he has certainly been hearing that old rule to shree points the Babes.

3 Lanks To Advance

Lancaster, O., Aug. 31.—It has been rumored around that Gus Epler, Bill Crouch and Edmonson will be sent to Portsmouth for the remaining season. Epler has played the best ball of his career and is hitting well. Bill Crouch is third certain to be surprised if he fails to make good in the way in which he has played. Edmonson is about everything that a first sacker should be. He is a good fielder, has way and has perfect throwing arm. Young Edmonson, who started well at first is a natural hitter. He would not help the Lanks much at the bat, but certainly would be a good pick up for a pinch hitter. All three would do well to help the Babes out in the stretch.

He Beat 'Our' Mr. Johnson

Umpire Johnston on Tuesday established a record which will probably stand the test of time. He called the batter out on strikes in the fourteenth of the contest on H. Cain, the first time this has happened in baseball history, and when the fourth inning came Boyle had every one thrown out remaining from the game by decisions. "If he had fired one any more of 'em," says Boyle, "we would have been forced to substitute the backstop and the bat boy."

Hammond Hit the Bull

Otway Hammond hit the bull in left field Tuesday afternoon as clean as a whistle, without any assistance from Lefty Geyer, which will get him $50 from the Durham company and he also made three of the five hits for the Babes and scored their only run, but our hard fighting ball club didn't win. —Chillicothe Advertiser.

Hammond hit the bull here some time ago and is the only player in the Ohio State league to accomplish that feat twice this season.

RED PROSPECTS MADE GOOD

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 31.—Two soon-to-be Red pitchers made excellent showing Tuesday. Prough, twirling for Birmingham in the fast Southern league, shut out New Orleans, the strongest team in the South, with four hits. Compton, who is to report to Cincinnati within the next few days, also pitched a shut-out victory for Dayton in the Central league, Grand Rapids getting only four hits. Compton walked only one man.

Will See Fair.

Harry Anderson, pharmacist at Flood & Blake's drug store, who was off duty Wednesday on account of illness, resumed work on Thursday. Mr. Anderson will leave for Columbus Friday to attend the big fair.

Will Fredrick, who is employed as a laster at the plant of the Selby Shoe Company, left Thursday for Columbus, where he will visit Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Stanton and incidentally take in the state fair.

Geo. Mullin Quits The Tigers

George Mullin is through at Detroit. He declared Tuesday positively that he had pitched his last game for the Tiger management and wanted a change, the day last week those ferocious baseball beasts, known as the Detroit baseball boards, made up their minds that Mullin was hitting them back. His opposition was hitting back so solidly that the infielders were called back to save their hides instead of merely making a few errors. There are two ways of looking at the matter. George Mullin pitched for a tenth of a century or more in that company is a century or more in that company is a policy to believe that Mullin is perhaps all to rather than his erring backers.

Some Sidelights On Wednesday Victory

Well, that was a pretty fair afternoon's work. While the opposition was not the most classy aggregation in the league, nevertheless the Lanks put up a pretty fair article of ball and the Champs can congratulate themselves over the two victories. The locals went into the games determined to win or break their neck in trying. They had plenty of that old pepper and nervine and won out handsomely. Had they displayed that sort of spirit in all the games of the season, Springfield would not have had pennant clinched. The Champs might not be in first place at that, but they would have been up around there.

The fact that Umpire Johnson lost his head caused considerable excitement in the sixth inning of the second game. Manager Childs had protested against a raw decision the arbitrator called on Emmett Cain when he did join second base while the ball was yet in the air. The umpire called the runner out, the prime decision of the season. Cain was laying on the sack when the second baseman took the throw, and as the game was an exceedingly close one the decision hurt like fury. Childs remonstrated with the umpire in a same manner, informing Johnson that he was absolutely incompetent and that he was as biased as could be. The arbitrator not caring to have his frailties exploited before the "big" crowd, ordered Pete off the field, although the manager had done nothing to warrant such a decree being issued against him. Catcher Beers then stepped into the limelight and said something about the various brands of cheese, and he was instantly ordered out of the park. The two players went to the bench, and the umpire pulled his watch, telling them he would allow them but three minutes to get out and if they did not obey his orders he would forfeit the game. "You forfeit the game, and we'll chuck you into the lake," said several of the fans in the stand. Beers walked toward Johnson, with a smile on his handsome face. The umps possibly thought that Beers meant mischief and pulling back his mask and uttering an oath he struck Beers on the side of the head and then lunged wildly at him three times. First Bascman Edwards jumped between the two men, and shoving Beers to the dampened grass, pulled the umpire from the ring and sat him down ker-plunk in a mud puddle. Many of the spectators heard the umpire use profane words and are willing to make an affidavit to this effect. They also saw him make the first pass at Beers with his mask. The trouble, however, soon passed over, and the fans forgot the incident when Wenny drove out that long triple to muddle, tying up the score.

Well, Piqua rolled in Thursday noon fresh from Chillicothe where they split even in the two games. The Picks are now without an owner and the boys are going along on their own hook, winning half of their games. The team is just below the Champs and they hope to get two out of three at Millbrook. The Champs want all three games and will play their heads off to accomplish this result. The teams were to have hooked up in a double header Thursday afternoon and will close their season's engagement at Millbrook park Friday afternoon, which by the way is Ladies' day. As this will be the last ladies day of the season a large number of the fanettes are expected to be out.

And Springfield won the flag. All right—congratulations, Hank and Mike. The only consolation Portsmouth can get out of that feat is the fact that one of her old stars, the Hon. Michael O'Day, was one of the central figures in helping to attain that honor. His hitting did much toward accomplishing the end. And then Manager Charley O'Day at one time held the reins on the Portsmouth team. He is a gamester and his admirers are pleased to learn of his achievement. It wouldn't be so bad, however, if O'Day hadn't released Bill Coleman to Marion. Had we had Bill, Hank might not have copped the flag, at least so early.

Homer Cain is without a doubt the best outfielder in the Ohio State league. He goes about his work day in and day out in a careful manner, pulling off plays that very few outfielders would attempt. Yesterday his catch off the bat of Rudolph, clean-up man for the Lanks, was the most spectacular ever seen at the park. The ball was hit with all the force that Rudolph could muster and it shot to right center like a bullet. Cain dug his spikes into the earth and running like a scared deer made a cross country leap and pulled the ball in with one hand. The play was cheered for five minutes, and Rudolph went to the bench cursing his luck.

Conley, third sacker for the Lanks, made what many people declare to be one of the grandest plays ever seen in this league. Emmett Cain drove a liner towards the third base bag. In 999 times out of a thousand the hit would have been good for two sacks, but Conley dove sideways and made a successful stab at the ball. He was off his balance at the time and sat flop dab on the third sack. While in this position he made a perfect peg of the ball, nipping little Cain by two full steps. Conley, who always did play great ball on the local lot was compelled to doff his cap more than once for the fans gave him the glad hand, their cheering lasting for some time. Manager Childs stated after the game that Conley's play was the greatest he had seen for many years.

Well, the Babes won from the Piqua team yesterday, and they are still one full game ahead of the Champs. The Wrigleyites are going along nicely and it begins to look as though it will take all the games between them and the Champs to decide the result. The fans can rest assured that the games will be bitterly contested, but withal they will be won or lost on their merits, providing the two aggregations get clean breaks from the umpires. No matter which team wins, the result will be accepted in a philosophical manner, for the players are clean cut and gentlemen, both on and off the field.

Harter and Moore pitched brilliant ball for the Champs. Both the twirlers should have secured shut outs, but the soft condition of the grounds allowed two ordinary rollers to go for hits, and they came at a time, too, when they meant runs. Harter was as steady as a plow horse and it will be noticed that he had his curve ball working beautifully, for he fanned his opponents, it seemed, whenever he wanted to. Harter is sure to work in two games against the Babes. So far the Chillicothe team has failed to beat the Sucker State Phenom and it is hoped he will keep that record clean. Moore pitched a crafty game, using his terrible speed to good advantage. He was as strong at the finish as when he started the game and the Lanks could do nothing whatever with his offerings.

Puts It Up To Lank Fans

Since Owner Kline of the Picks has objected to the transferring of the games, the two remaining contests with Piqua will be played here next Saturday and Sunday, writes Walker in the Lancaster Eagle. Another thing Mr. Armour wants to see what the fans will do in the way of patronizing the games for the final. If the attendance is good, the team will beyond a doubt remain at Lancaster, but with a decided falling off on next Sunday, Mr. Armour will more than likely look around for a more suitable city to place his team in next season. Just two more games, that's all. You had better come out and help the bunch along at any rate. Next Saturday and Sunday.

COOPER MADE NICE SHOWING

Leiry Cooper, lately secured from Marion by Columbus, pitched his first game for the Senators Wednesday, holding Milwaukee to four hits, but losing his game 2 to 0 simply because Columbus could not hit behind him. He fanned one man, did not walk a batter, made a single and fielded his position cleanly. All in all his showing was such as to merit his retention by the Senators, and he will likely become one of their regular as well as winning slabmen.

Mr. Pelfrey Better.

Word has been received here that William Peyfrey, who was taken suddenly ill while the guest of Landen Scaggs, and who had to be sent home to Morehead, Ky., is much better. Mr. Pelfrey is able to be up, but can not yet go outside his house.

Babes Have Pleased

Chillicothe, O., Aug. 31. Whatever the outcome of the season may be, Chillicothe rooters will certainly have no kick coming. The present team has played ball every minute and has fought for every point. It is by far the best aggregation of ball tossers that was ever gathered together in the city and every man is heart and soul in the game, and as anxious to win as are the spectators. The fact that the boys are fighting hard, has kept the attendance up to more than the standard and proves that the fans appreciate the efforts of the boys.

The prospects now are that Chillicothe and Portsmouth will have to split it out for their positions in the last four games and they will be for about. By losing Tuesday the Babes went back, while Portsmouth gained a point by not playing. Chillicothe, Portsmouth and Piqua are now so close together that it will take the final game to develop the result.

Will Draft Champs

The draft season in the minor leagues closes tonight at 12 o'clock and on Friday the list of lucky players will be officially announced.

President Gableman stated to The Times Thursday that he fully expected to have several of his men drafted. There is individual strength in the Champs' line-up. Man for man the team compares with any in the league.

O'Toole Won His First For Pirates

South Side Ball Grounds, Boston, Mass., Aug. 31.—Marty O'Toole, baseball's $22,500 pitcher, made his big league debut here Wednesday afternoon in the first game of the double-header between the Pirates and the Beans. The announcement that O'Toole would be pitted against the veteran Cy Young brought out one of the banner crowds of the season, and the fans braved possible rain and the discomfitures of wet grounds to see the slab duel.

At the 1st moment Manager Fred Tenney decided that he needed old Cy for the second game, so the relative merits of the veteran of base ball and the youngest, as well as the most expensive pitcher in the big leagues, remains unsettled, though it may be solved before the end of the season. O'Toole, with three errors behind him, held the Boston team to four scattered hits and the Pirates won. But for the errors and what seemed to be an unfortunate combination of circumstances Kelly, the score might have been more impressive. O'Toole seemed not to be in trouble at any stage of the game, though it was a close contest.

Kelly was taken out of the game in the seventh inning and Gibson, first catcher of the Pirates, was sent in. The Pirates started off with a rush, and O'Toole may fairly claim to be worth the phenomenal price paid for him by Barney Dreyfuss, if he maintains the showing he made Wednesday afternoon. Score by innings:

Pittsburg ..... 0 4 1 0 0 0 3 0 1 — 8
Boston ..... 1 1 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 — 4

Batteries: Pittsburg, O'Toole, Kelly and Gibson; Boston, Weaver, Tyler and King. Umpires—Rigler and Finneran.

HAS QUIT THE REDS

Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Dill will leave Sunday morning for Cincinnati, where they will spend several days with friends and relatives. Mr. Dill, who is a popular Chillicothe street barber, and who has for years been an ardent rooter for the "Reds," states that he has become weaned from them and wouldn't go to see them play if he knew they would win in a walk.

Big Steel Plant Means Much To Peerless City

It is perhaps not generally known that the local plant of the Portsmouth Steel Company is one of the very few in this country that is working right up to the handle in all departments.

The steel market has sagged greatly and hundreds of plants are idle awaiting the time when a hypodermic will be injected into the steel market. The mills of the local firm in Martin's Ferry and Wheeling are working less than half time. This one here is a veritable bee-hive of industry. All departments are humming and there is a constant cry for more men.

And this same condition has prevailed before. The local plant seems to be immune from the fluctuations of the steel market. It goes on, and on, and on. Not in many years has the iron market been in such a weakened and deplorable condition as just now. The output of the local industry is just a little different than at other steel plants, and this difference enables the officials to keep on getting out their orders, which are always piling up.

At Ironton, for instance, there are ten furnaces, wire mills, etc., and only one of them is working. The other nine have closed down. In Ashland the plants that make steel are on half time. Three are idle. And so it is in almost every city in the country except Portsmouth. With the completion of the new jobbing mill, the local plant will be one of the very largest and most modern in the country.

They are telling a good one at the expense of F. N. Patterson, of the Market street barber firm of Patterson & Wheeler. "Pat" went out boat riding all by his lonesome the other evening, and they do say he rowed backwards. A man on the Kentucky hills shouted at the top of his voice, trying to correct the inexperienced oarsman, but Pat could not understand, and backwards the boat continued, slowly, but surely, until again on the Ohio side.

Socialists Plan To Have Haywood Here

The New Boston Socialists are planning to bring William T. Haywood, of Haywood-Meyer-Pettibone fame, for two speeches this winter. Mr. Haywood has expressed his willingness to come and it is probable that he will speak one night at New Boston and one night at Portsmouth. The matter is being arranged through the New Boston local.

Commencing with next Wednesday night the New Boston local will hold regular meetings and will start the active campaign in earnest. Wilbur Griffith, who is to return here in two weeks, is to make several speeches.

HUNDRED MILLION OF STAMPS TO BE SOLD

If expectations for the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals this year, as announced by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis today, are realized, one hundred million of the holiday stickers or a million dollars worth, will be sold.

The National Tuberculosis Association will this year for the first time be National Agent for the American Red Cross in handling the sale of seals. A new national office has been opened in Washington, and an initial order has been placed for 50,000,000 seals, although it is expected that double that number will be sold. The charge to local agents for the seals will be 12½ per cent of the gross proceeds, the national agent furnishing the seals and advertising material, and taking back all unsold seals at the end of the season.

Postmaster General Hitchcock has approved of the design of the seal. Owing to the fact that many people last year used Red Cross Seals for postage, the post office department has given orders that letters or packages bearing seals on the face will not be carried through the mails.

This will be the third year that the seals have been sold on a national basis. In 1908 over $135,000 was realized from the sale; in 1909, nearly $225,000; and in 1910 nearly $310,000. The slogan for this year's sale is "A Million for Tuberculosis from Red Cross Seals."

OAK HILL MAY BE CUT OFF B.&O. MAP

The B. & O. engineers employed along the Branch ran a line recently from Cauba to Monroe, which shortens the distance by several miles, says the Jackson Standard-Journal. They turned out from the Branch near the residence of John Johnson, passed near the Farrar and Robert Johnson houses down to Blackfork, through the Mary Davis, J. Ellis Evans and other farms to Jefferson, thence to the Shepherd farm, where a tunnel would be necessary.

The survey then follows the gap and passes south to Monroe. This is about two and a half miles west of Oak Hill, and could be utilized for through freight without affecting its interests.

Two other surveys have been made east of the Branch, William Griffith informed us that one connects the C., H. & D. with the Branch on the north side of Cack-ley swamp. John J. Thomas reports a similar survey through his farm, for the same purpose. The engineers are evidently making a thorough investigation of this hill country, in order to apply the modern methods in railroad economy.

Conservation of Timber Upsets Cheap Lumber Talk

because if one will just stop a moment to compare the rapid increase each year of our population and its added demands for new homes, with the comparatively limited supply of standing virgin timber, it will be easy to see why cheaper lumber is impossible. It's a fact, though, that the lumber we handle these days compared with the mill-work that was sold 15 to 20 years ago is a much greater bargain for home builders. This improvement in quality is obtainable at no increase in cost, aside from the natural advance in standing timber, because of the great improvement in labor saving saw mill machinery over that used years ago. Let us explain this more fully by showing you the kind of stock we have.

WATCH BACKWARD CHILDREN FOR AILMENTS, DECLARES EDUCATOR

"Have you ever noticed that all languages begin with the sign language?" said Dr. Bible to a Times reporter this morning.

"Have you watched the baby, long before he can begin to talk, making signs and telling you what he is trying to say. He can say goodbye with his hands months before he can form the words with his lips.

"And so it is with teaching in the school room. I believe in beginning with the 'gesture' language. The children grasp what you are trying to tell them if you will have patience and teach them.

"Take care of the child, and if you notice that he is not progressing as rapidly as he should, see to it that he has medical attention.

"There is an enormous number of retarded pupils in the schools of today who have defective hearing, seeing and other physical wrongs that the school teacher should discover quickly if the proper attention is to be given to the pupil."

Dr. Bible was on the program for two lectures Thursday morning, but the teachers of the institute did not object to this, and they listened to his first subject with closest attention.

He spoke on "Memory," and in his discourse he told the teachers that they had as many different kinds of memory as they had physical senses.

First is the visual, auditory, verbal and logical, then there is the voluntary and involuntary memory, under which comes remembrances and recall.

Dr. Bible believes in developing the memory by use. He says: "We make the children stupid by presuming that they do not know."

"Exercise the will."

"You cannot hold the attention of the child for any length of time. If the mind flits away, find something of interest to bring it back."

"We recall things in the order in which they are learned."

Dr. Bible's second talk at the morning session was again along the lines of expression. He recited poems by Eugene Field and Burns.

Miss Roling Speaks.

Miss Roling was the second speaker at the morning session, and again delighted the teachers with her method of teaching in the primary department.

She spoke on teaching arithmetic and brought out many splendid ways of developing the child's mind in the problems that so often "stump" them in beginning mathematics.

If the teachers of the Scioto County Association take up Miss Roling's method of introducing arithmetic in the primary department, they will find that as the child progresses it will not have so much difficulty in mastering the harder problems.

Miss Roling's address on Arithmetic was very much appreciated. It showed a great deal of study in preparation. Some of the epigrams in her talk were:

"Arithmetic was first purely mechanical."

"In no way has arithmetic changed so much as in the nature of the problems and the arrangement of the material."

"The practical teachers of America arranged their own material to a great extent and gave to the child what his interests and capabilities suggested."

"Of all the terms used in education circles 'method' is perhaps the most loosely defined."

"All considerate experiments and indiscriminate methodizing should be abandoned and attention devoted to the preserving and continuous drill necessary for accurate and efficient training."

Teachers Get Tired

One of the teachers was heard to say at the institute this morning: "It is hard work attending an institute, and I can now appreciate how difficult it is for the children to sit in a school room throughout the morning without several intermissions."

"Why don't we have more intermissions?" said another. "I believe that we would get more and better work out of the little folks if we gave them a little work and then a little play, making the studies shorter and the play longer."

That train of thought may not coincide with the older teachers who are attending the institute this week, but it is one that might help the coming generations.

As the closing days of the institute approach, the teachers seem to be more and more inclined to express their views on these important subjects, and Thursday there were numerous little groups throughout the church which expressed views that would be of great help to every teacher in the county had they been expressed before the entire audience.

The session Thursday was opened by devotional exercises led by Miss Hammond, deaconess of the D. A. R. Mr. Davis rendered a solo, which was heartily encored.

Afternoon Session

Miss Roling continued her talk on "Arithmetic" at the opening of the session Thursday afternoon, showing higher grade work in the schools.

The many questions introduced by the teachers showed their interest in the subject.

Owing to Commissioner Miller speaking Wednesday afternoon instead of this afternoon, the program was shortened.

Many took advantage of the short afternoon session and went to Millbrook to see the ball game.

Committees Appointed

At the afternoon session Thursday, President Cook announced the following committee, which will look into the cause of retardation, and outline a course of study.

The committee will have power to add to their committee and call on the teachers in the association to assist them in the work. Those appointed were: Chairman, Frank Appel; E. O. McCowan and John Warren.

BRYAN TOSSES A FEW BRICKS

(By United Press.)

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 31—"The president's reasons for vetoing the tariff revision measures passed by congress were lamentably weak. The farmers ought to remember that the president has deliberately surrendered them to the greed of the protected interests and has cast his lot with those who furnished his campaign fund. The president's veto of the Cotton reduction bill will furnish further evidence of his subserviency to the exploiting classes. No real relief is to be hoped for from him."

In this way William Jennings Bryan sums up his opinion of Taft in an extended review of the work of the special session of congress in the Commoner, this week. The declaration was also made that several mistakes were made by the Democratic House. One was in putting a tariff on raw wool. Another was in adjourning without passing a measure submitting an amendment for the direct election of United States senators. Another was in not passing an anti-trust law and another was in permitting a secret caucus to control legislation.

The greatest of all mistakes Bryan puts down was the making of Oscar Underwood, of Alabama, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

"He is not a thorough-going tariff reformer," says Bryan, "and his environment is against progressive democracy. This mistake has already cost the party dearly."
